What is History?

- History is an account of the past.

- Accounts differ depending on one’s perspective.

- We rely on evidence to construct accounts of the past.

- We must question the reliability of each piece of evidence.

- Any single piece of evidence is insufficient to build a plausible account.